

Donation of Interview to the Texas After Violence Project

Representatives of the Texas After Violence Project interviewed me on the _____ day of _____, 20___. Today, I freely and voluntarily donate the recording(s) and written transcript of the interview, and the following materials related to the interview, to the Texas After Violence Project:

The Texas After Violence Project, and its successor organization if any, may use, publish, and distribute these materials as excerpts or in their entirety, for any educational and non-commercial purpose without further consent from me, effective the _____ day of _____, 20___. I understand that the Texas After Violence Project intends to distribute these materials to the Dolph Briscoe Center for American History (CAH) and/or the Human Rights Documentation Initiative (HRDI) at the University of Texas, and to other public or private schools, colleges, universities, religious entities, research organizations or institutions, public libraries, and individual researchers for educational and non-commercial use as the project deems appropriate. The purpose of such distribution is and will be to make the materials widely available to the public, who may cite portions of the materials for educational and non-commercial use. I understand that I will not receive financial or other compensation for the donation of this interview, for any of the video, audio, or written records of the interview or pertaining to the interview.
